

A PRINTABLE PLANNER FOR TABLETOP ROLEPLAYING GAMES

The Game Master's

CAMPAIGN PLANNER

Plan the world. Run the table. Remember everything.

CAMPAIGN _____

GAME MASTER _____ BEGAN _____

HOW TO USE THIS PLANNER

Print what you need, as often as you need it.

This planner holds your whole campaign in one binder: the pitch, the world, the people in it, and every session you run. Nothing here is tied to one rule system, so it works with any fantasy tabletop RPG.

A PREP ROUTINE THAT WORKS

1. Review last session's log and your plot threads.
2. Pick a strong opening that drops the players into action.
3. List secrets and clues the players could discover, in any order.
4. Prep people and places, not plots. Let the players choose the path.
5. Plan one or two encounters and the rewards they earn.
6. Log the session right after you play, while it's fresh.

BINDER TIPS

- Use tabs for Campaign, World, Cast, Sessions and Inspiration.
- Print Session Prep, Session Log and Combat Tracker pages in batches.
- Write in pencil. Plans change the moment players arrive.
- Faction clocks show the world moving even when the heroes don't.
- Stuck? Roll on the Instant Inspiration tables.

NPC QUIRKS

Roll d100 to give anyone a memorable personality.

D100

01–50

- | | | | |
|----|---|----|--|
| 01 | Speaks only in questions when nervous | 26 | Sings instead of speaking when drunk |
| 02 | Hums the same four notes, over and over | 27 | Avoids stepping on cracks between cobbles |
| 03 | Counts their coins twice, then once more | 28 | Has an unexplained fear of ducks |
| 04 | Refers to themselves in the third person | 29 | Calls everyone "friend," even enemies |
| 05 | Sharpens a knife that is already sharp | 30 | Keeps adjusting a hat that fits fine |
| 06 | Laughs a beat too late at every joke | 31 | Whispers, even when shouting would help |
| 07 | Wears a ring on every finger, each with a story | 32 | Always chewing on a grass stalk or quill |
| 08 | Sniffs every dish suspiciously before eating | 33 | Keeps a running tally of favors owed |
| 09 | Gets the party's names wrong, differently each time | 34 | Unfailingly polite, which is somehow threatening |
| 10 | Keeps a pet beetle in a matchbox | 35 | Remembers every face but never a name |
| 11 | Finishes other people's sentences, usually wrong | 36 | Blesses each sneeze in a different god's name |
| 12 | Quotes proverbs nobody has ever heard | 37 | Carries a heavy book they never open |
| 13 | Never sits with their back to a door | 38 | Eats constantly, and insists you share |
| 14 | Writes everything down in a tiny notebook | 39 | Talks about the weather as if it holds grudges |
| 15 | Whistles through a gap in their front teeth | 40 | Can't resist correcting anyone's grammar |
| 16 | Knocks on wood whenever luck is mentioned | 41 | Taps out rhythms like a secret code |
| 17 | Shakes hands with both hands, too long | 42 | Gives everyone a nickname within a minute |
| 18 | Is warmer to animals than to people | 43 | Overly proud of a small, ugly scar |
| 19 | Has a dramatic sigh for every occasion | 44 | Cracks knuckles before anything important |
| 20 | Always smells faintly of woodsmoke and cloves | 45 | Stares just past you when talking |
| 21 | Claims to be distantly related to royalty | 46 | Bags about a monster they "almost" killed |
| 22 | Fidgets with a lucky copper coin | 47 | Always has a better story than yours |
| 23 | Answers questions with long, winding stories | 48 | Carries a flower that never wilts |
| 24 | Squints as if every room is too bright | 49 | Laughs at their own jokes before the punchline |
| 25 | Collects buttons from strangers | 50 | Only trusts people who own a dog |

D100
51–100

- | | | | |
|----|--|----|---|
| 51 | Keeps glancing over their shoulder | 76 | Believes they are cursed. They may be right |
| 52 | Talks to their late spouse's locket | 77 | Carries tiny wooden toys for children |
| 53 | Uses big words, mostly incorrectly | 78 | Says "as they say" before made-up sayings |
| 54 | Haggles over everything, even gifts | 79 | Can't stand silence and fills it immediately |
| 55 | Has a pet crow that repeats their secrets | 80 | Claims a deadly allergy to cats |
| 56 | Scratches their nose whenever they lie | 81 | Sketches everyone they meet |
| 57 | Straightens anything that hangs crooked | 82 | Speaks slowly, weighing every single word |
| 58 | Reads fortunes from a deck missing three cards | 83 | Is always mid-meal when anyone visits |
| 59 | Speaks in a stiff, old-fashioned formal tone | 84 | Wears armor everywhere, even to weddings |
| 60 | Sweats heavily whenever magic is used nearby | 85 | Hides behind a thick accent that keeps slipping |
| 61 | Offers unwanted advice on everyone's posture | 86 | Keeps a ledger of every insult received |
| 62 | Is certain the party are spies | 87 | Won't help until you answer a riddle |
| 63 | Keeps trying to recruit the party to a guild | 88 | Is deathly afraid of deep water |
| 64 | Walks with a cane they clearly don't need | 89 | Tries to sell the party something every time |
| 65 | Snorts when laughing, then apologizes | 90 | Has a laugh that fills the whole room |
| 66 | Wears mismatched boots on purpose | 91 | Checks a pocket watch that stopped years ago |
| 67 | Knows everyone's business and shares it freely | 92 | Treats their old mule like royalty |
| 68 | Pauses mid-sentence to listen to something | 93 | Always cold, wrapped in too many cloaks |
| 69 | Writes terrible poetry and reads it aloud | 94 | Winks after every statement, true or not |
| 70 | Salutes, bows and curtsies all at once | 95 | Believes all dreams are prophecies |
| 71 | Loves gossip but swears they hate it | 96 | Quietly notices what everyone else misses |
| 72 | Owes money to someone the party knows | 97 | Keeps a lock of someone's hair in a pouch |
| 73 | Endlessly polishes a battered old helmet | 98 | Flinches at loud noises; an old soldier |
| 74 | Refuses to say the name of a certain town | 99 | Only drinks milk and defends this loudly |
| 75 | Mentions their mother in every conversation | 00 | Is secretly, and badly, in disguise |

- 10 A map to a sunken vault is sewn into a beggar's coat.
- 11 The mayor meets a hooded stranger every new moon.
- 12 Graves in the churchyard were dug up, then filled back in.
- 13 A dragon's egg is for sale on the black market. Supposedly.
- 14 The ferryman now charges passage in secrets, not coin.
- 15 Border soldiers are deserting. Something scared them off.
- 16 The marsh witch grants wishes, but always takes a memory.
- 17 The blacksmith's forge burns blue, and he won't say why.
- 18 The village children all keep drawing the same door.
- 19 The bard who sang here last week was found turned to stone.
- 20 The duke's fleet sailed out full and came back empty.
- 07 Spiced wine that changes color as it cools
- 08 Pickled eggs from a jar older than the tavern
- 09 Blackberry mead, sweet enough to glue your teeth
- 10 Salt-crusted river fish, eaten with your fingers
- 11 Hard cheese with a rind you shouldn't eat
- 12 Mystery skewers. Tuesday's are best. Don't ask.

VILLAINS & TWISTS

D20

VILLAIN MOTIVES

- | | | | |
|----|---|----|---|
| 01 | Revenge for a wrong done by the heroes' allies | 11 | Wants to become a god, or kill one |
| 02 | To bring back someone they lost, at any cost | 12 | Serving a master far worse than themselves |
| 03 | Believes the world must burn to be reborn | 13 | Proving their family wrong about them |
| 04 | Guarding a secret that would topple a kingdom | 14 | Freeing an imprisoned people, monsters included |
| 05 | Claiming a throne they believe is theirs by right | 15 | Escaping a prophecy by rewriting it |
| 06 | A pact must be paid, or their soul is forfeit | 16 | Curing a plague they accidentally caused |
| 07 | Wants to be remembered forever, as anything | 17 | Collecting something from each of the heroes |
| 08 | Truly believes they're saving everyone | 18 | Love, twisted into obsession |
| 09 | Pure greed for a legendary treasure | 19 | Boredom: immortality has made them cruel |
| 10 | Ending a war by any means necessary | 20 | Reclaiming land stolen from their people |

D12

PLOT TWISTS

- | | | | |
|----|--|----|--|
| 01 | The quest giver is the real villain. | 07 | A "dead" ally faked their death to spy on the party. |
| 02 | The villain is a hero's missing relative. | 08 | The map is accurate. It's just 300 years old. |
| 03 | The treasure is a living being. | 09 | The prophecy is about the villain, not the heroes. |
| 04 | The monster was protecting the town, not threatening it. | 10 | The villain wants the heroes to succeed, for now. |
| 05 | The heroes were hired to steal their own reward. | 11 | The kingdom's savior made a terrible bargain. |
| 06 | Two rival factions are secretly led by the same person. | 12 | The dungeon is inside something alive. |

D10

VILLAIN CALLING CARDS

- | | | | |
|----|--|----|---|
| 01 | A single black feather left at every scene | 06 | Letters sealed with a thumbprint in red wax |
| 02 | Every candle in the room goes out at once | 07 | Animals flee the area a day before |
| 03 | Witnesses hum the same nursery rhyme | 08 | A playing card, always the same one |
| 04 | Chalk circles appear on doors overnight | 09 | Mirrors crack in the shape of a crown |
| 05 | Flowers wilt in a perfect ring | 10 | Church bells ring backwards at midnight |

TREASURES & OPENERS

D20

STRANGE TREASURES

- | | | | |
|----|--|----|---|
| 01 | A compass that points to the last thing you lost | 11 | A jar of fireflies that never die |
| 02 | A teacup that refills with whatever you last drank | 12 | A one-string lute that can play any song |
| 03 | A key that opens any lock, but only once | 13 | A candle that burns cold and casts no light |
| 04 | A mirror that shows the room as it was yesterday | 14 | A pressed flower from a land that doesn't exist |
| 05 | A bottled storm, rattling against the glass | 15 | A ring that tightens when someone lies to you |
| 06 | A coin with a stranger's face on both sides | 16 | A seed that grows into a door |
| 07 | A map that redraws itself as you walk | 17 | A glass eye that sees clearly through fog |
| 08 | A silver bell no one else can hear | 18 | Two dice that always add up to seven |
| 09 | A quill that can only write the truth | 19 | A letter to one of the heroes, dated 50 years ago |
| 10 | A fox-shaped cloak pin that sometimes yawns | 20 | A crown of antlers, always warm to the touch |

D12

SESSION OPENERS

- | | | | |
|----|---|----|--|
| 01 | Start mid-chase. Something is gaining on them, fast. | 07 | Funeral bells ring for someone they know. |
| 02 | A bleeding stranger bursts in and hands them a package. | 08 | A rival party beats them to their destination. |
| 03 | They wake up somewhere they didn't fall asleep. | 09 | A storm drives them into a shelter that is already occupied. |
| 04 | The bridge ahead collapses just as they reach it. | 10 | Their reward is stolen while they sleep. |
| 05 | A messenger arrives with the worst possible news. | 11 | A child begs them to find a lost pet. It isn't a normal pet. |
| 06 | An old enemy offers a truce, and a warning. | 12 | Everyone in town has forgotten the heroes' names. |

D10

OMENS & WEATHER

- | | | | |
|----|---|----|---|
| 01 | Fog so thick that sound gets lost in it | 06 | Wind blowing from every direction at once |
| 02 | A red moon, and every dog howls at once | 07 | A rainbow at midnight |
| 03 | Warm rain that smells of iron | 08 | Snow falls, but only on the heroes |
| 04 | Midsummer hail that doesn't melt | 09 | The river runs backwards for an hour |
| 05 | Hundreds of crows gathering in silence | 10 | Sudden, total silence: no birds, no wind |
